Hello Mass Timber Colleagues!

Feature: Mass Timber Today Podcast Episode 2

LACEY ROSE

Episode 2

Tune in to a new episode of the Mass Timber Today Podcast! In this episode, our host, Anne Koven speaks with Lacey Rose with the County of Renfrew in Ontario, Canada. Lacey is a Registered Professional Forester with the province of Ontario. In this episode, we investigate where the wood used in mass timber comes from in Canada, and how Lacey plays a part in ensuring this wood supply is sustainable, and what sustainable forestry really means. This conversation will really help builders and architects contextualize the origins of the wood they use.

Highlights from this episode:

"It's hard to find anyone who cares more about forests than the people who work in them"

"We need mass timber to work with us [foresters] too. It would be great to see the wood put to good use."
